This stunning home is located in a quiet cul-de-sac, on the southern ridge at Stepney in St. George with spectacular panoramic country views. The neighbourhood is quiet and private with cool breezes. Designed by Michael Gomes, this superbly designed executive home combines Barbadian influences with a modern flare.

On entering the spacious home the living area flows onto the patio with stunning views. The dining area features a built in semicircular sideboard and bar area which wraps around into the internal staircase that leads to the floor below, the pool and outdoor bar area.

The large modern kitchen is outfitted with a centre island /breakfast bar and opens onto the family room which provides a large space for relaxing. From the kitchen there is an entry to the double carport, store room and a separate laundry with a drying deck.

The bedrooms are spacious and all benefit from the north-east trade winds making them very breezy. They all have air-conditioning and built-in closets. The bathrooms are finished with marble

The home features high pickled wood ceilings, ceiling fans, solid wood doors and shutters, coral stone columns and arched coral architraves.

On the lower level there is space for an additional two bedrooms and even a gym is desired. There is a large room which can be used as entertainment space which opens onto the pool deck. There is a patio on this level that opens onto the pool deck with a bar.
